Governor Joins Annual Homelessness Survey Volunteers

Governor John Carney recently joined DSHA Director Anas Ben Addi and volunteers across the state helping with the Point In Time Count, the annual survey of people experiencing homelessness that collects information to fight homelessness and improve services.

Also joining volunteers in Wilmington were Delaware Department of Health and Social Services (DHSS) Secretary Dr. Kara Odom Walker, Kids' Department Secretary Josette Manning, New Castle County Executive Matt Meyer, and U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development Delaware Field Office Director Maria Bynum.

DSHA thanks Housing Alliance Delaware and the Continuum of Care for their work in this effort and organizing the teams in all three counties.
